

Gov. Charles B. Aycock Birthplace State Historic Site and Wayne Community College present
Charles B. Aycock's North Carolina:
Politics, Education, and Race Relations in the Progressive Era

Fri., January 19, and Sat., January 20, 2001

with major support from the North Carolina Humanities Council

Free to the public. Fee for meals. Preregistration required. Participants are eligible for one hour teacher renewal credit. For information, please call 919-242-5581.

January 19 3-8 p.m. Wayne Community College

Ray Brannon, Wayne Community College as Charles B. Aycock — Excerpts from his speeches

Dr. William Link, University of North Carolina at Greensboro
“The Paradoxes of Southern Reform: The Case of North Carolina”

Meal (charge)

Dr. Jeffrey J. Crow, Director, North Carolina Division of Archives and History — “The North Carolina Partisan Press of the 1890s”

January 20 8:30 a.m. - 5 p.m. Aycock Birthplace and Wayne Community College

Tour of Aycock Birthplace
Kathy Bundy, — Schoolmarm Presentation

Meal (charge)

Dr. James L. Leloudis, University of North Carolina — “Public Education and the Making of a New North Carolina”

Dr. John Haley, University of North Carolina at Wilmington — “Reckoning With Race: The Progressive Paradox”

Panel discussion for middle and high school teachers

